

Massachusetts Chronic Disease Improvement Network (MCDIN)

MCDIN

The Massachusetts Chronic Disease Improvement Network was developed by Education and Training (E&T) in 1998 to assist health care professionals and institutions improve clinical outcomes for people living with chronic diseases. The project was sponsored by the MassHealth Office of Clinical Affairs to assist MassHealth providers with an online chronic disease management resource.

The Network served as a clearinghouse for resources and information regarding the management of chronic illness. In 2001, MassHealth withdrew sponsorship of the website and MCDIN was administered through OCP, working in collaboration with the Berkshire Area Health Education Center (AHEC), Pittsfield, MA. Currently the project is without funding and until funding is secured, the website remains suspended.
