The Tan Chingfen Graduate School of Nursing invites applications from qualified candidates to serve as clinical faculty for the Graduate Entry Pathway (GEP). The GEP program prepares students who have the minimum of a bachelor’s degree outside the field of nursing to become licensed as a professional registered nurse (RN), and then continue in the Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) or PhD program for a career as an advanced-practice nurse or nurse scientist.

The Tan Chingfen Graduate School of Nursing has openings for clinical faculty in:

- Pediatric Nursing (January-March 2022)
- Maternity Nursing (January-March 2022)
- Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing (March-May 2022)

The scope of responsibilities for clinical faculty include:

- Preparing a patient assignment for each clinical day
- Supervision of student clinical experiences on assigned unit
- Evaluation of student’s written clinical assignments
- Facilitation of clinical post-conference
- Regular communication with clinical coordinator and participation, as needed, in clinical faculty meetings

MSN preferred; BSN and 5 years of clinical experience in specialty area required.

If you are interested in learning more about these opportunities, please contact:

Jim Fain PhD, RN
Associate Dean for Academic Affairs
Tan Chingfen Graduate School of Nursing

James.Fain@umassmed.edu