Chen Institute Science Writer Fellowship Application Form

TCCI is a nonprofit organization and dedicated to supporting the fields of the Brain and Mind. We are launching a science writer scholarship to promote science communication and collaboration. The funding covers travel (if in-person), symposium registration, and an honorarium to write a science report. Candidates should apply below. The fellowship recipient will be selected and receive practical guidance, advice, and mentorship from the conference committee. Deliverables of the fellowship includes a 3-page report.

- Two weeks after the meeting, the Chen Science Writer will provide TCCI with a 2-to-3-page co-authored written report with a high-level description of the conference and several “bullet points” that address the following:
 - the discussions/findings the scholar found particularly exciting
 - controversies that were discussed
 - their view of future issues that need to be addressed
- The report will be prepared by the Chen Scholars with mentorship and consultation by designated members of the organizing Committee.
- The report may not contain information deemed confidential by designated members of the Conference organizing Committee.

All boxes on the 2nd page must be completed in full for your application to be considered.
