

“UMass Medical School has been my family away from my real family. The faculty and deans enjoy hearing about where you come from and help you decide where you want to go. I am proud to have been educated here.”

Samuel Ayala
Graduating in 2009

Samuel believes the Medical School has prepared him to be competitive in the real world. But it also has offered ways to balance his personal and educational lives. “You’re expected to make the grade, but you are also supported emotionally,” said Samuel. “Faculty, residents and fellow students are always checking in with you.”
